We are proud to share that the Utah State University School Counseling Program has been awarded a full seven-year re-accreditation through the Association for Advancing Quality in Educator Preparation (AAQEP)! This milestone reflects the quality of our program and our ongoing commitment to preparing exceptional school counselors through rigorous coursework, meaningful field experiences, and continuous program improvement. For our current students, this recognition affirms that you are part of a program dedicated to meeting high national standards while continually evolving to best prepare you for your future careers. Thank you to our students, alumni, faculty, site supervisors, and school partners who played an important role in this achievement.
